The Band, travelling by double-decker bus, toured through the states of Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, and Kansas. This "vacation" was spent playing concerts in churches at least once a day and also for church services on Sunday mornings and on Ash Wednesday. A different church meant a different potluck before the concert and a new host family to stay with for the night. Band members spent their day off in San Antonio, Texas and the night from the historic Alamo. This time off was spent with many tanning attempts and jumping out to an early Saturday morning to see the San Antonio Spurs play the LA Clippers.

King's Players Tour Begins in Florida

By Jill Emery

Thursday, February 27, the King's Players left for a tour booked full of performances in Florida—the sunshine state. Off we went, rehearsing lines as we drove through rain and on into more rain, thinking of those swimmats and bermed shorts doomed to stay tucked away in the little corners of our suitcases.

Performances took us from Daytona, Orlando, Tampa and a not-to-be-named gas station in Tennessee which witnessed a superfluity of performances. In fact, entering number in the parking lot, to right back home again for our final tour shows.

The children at each school in Florida always presented a personal challenge to the choir. How could we bring these stories to them in such a way so they would understand and learn from what was performed. The workshops, questions and the big hugs from those little people afterward always sent us on to our next stop charged to perform again.

It was a thrill to watch as songs home were certainly special in that this was our chance to share what not only we, the cast, but also the writers and coordinators had worked so hard on and to tell you those parables in a new and hopefully meaningful way.

We'd like to thank everyone involved in the King's Players for their efforts this year as well as those who supported us in prayers and other forms of encouragement. I'd like to leave you with just one request if I may. Will someone please inform Deb Brown as to the whereabouts of "Wally World"?

True Colors
By Kathy Peschel

Concordia College will be hosting about 450 high school students and their counselors on April 24-25.

The theme for this gathering is "True Colors." The emphasis is on an interpretation of Lauper's song of the same title. The choir director, Kathy Peschel, has been known to make the audience laugh at her unique musical stylings. This year, the theme is "Jachzet dem Herrn."" (Thank you for your patience.

The choir will be performing in the Amazing Grace chapel on May 2, at the Sheraton Midway, just across the highway from the college. If you have not been inside the Sheraton, you are in for a treat.

Walking into the hotel is like stepping into another world. The colors and light streams through the skylights above. We will be having a social hour prior to the dinner in this room.

The banquet rooms are spacious so there will not be a cramped atmosphere as we are enjoying the meal. Lighting in the banquet rooms lends itself to the mood of the evening, and candles will be placed on each table. (Con't)

Choir Tour
By Becky Meyer and Lisa Albert

During Spring Break '87, the Christus Chorus chartered a plane and flew to California. This was just the beginning of a 12 day tour that would include at least two more performances in five states by the choir plus the new addition of handbells and a contemporary group.

It was a joy to perform before so many enthusiastic audiences, but the choir also had some time to do some true vacationing. One afternoon was spent in San Francisco. Activities included riding on cable cars, sailing or shopping along Fisherman's Wharf. Later in the tour, the choir spent a day in San Diego, where they stayed at the Bahia Hotel on Mission Bay Drive. While many elected to be entertained with the aquatic life at Sea World, others spent the day people-watching on the beach while trying desperately to get some sort of a tan.

The choir then proceeded on through the desert states of Arizona and New Mexico. Many members got their first look at sand, cactuses and tumbleweeds. Several members commented to the conclusion that no life form could ever exist in such a place.

The Rockers that provided beautiful scenery and motion sickness was felt by some. From Colorado, the choir proceeded into Nebraska where members had many thoughts about California. Finally, on the 24 hour drive from North Platte, Nebraska to home, people were so crazed with boredom, that they were driven to entertain themselves by having a dance in the aisles of the bus.

The choir ended their tour with an on campus concert in the Music Building Auditorium. 😊

Spring Banquet at the Sheraton

By Kathy Peschel Director of Special Activities

Spring Banquet will be held on May 2, at the Sheraton Midway, just across the highway from the college. If you have not been inside the Sheraton, you are in for a treat.

Some students have wondered; "I don't have a date"? Ladies, this is the 80's - ask a guy to go with you! This does not have to be a lifetime relationship! If you like someone and would like to spend an evening having dinner and dancing with them and 200 other campers, encourage THEM! (That goes for the guys too!). And, it is perfectly acceptable to go stag.

Have you ever seen Steve Arnold dance? How about Prof. Leminger? Or Dean Tesch? Or Loma Meyer? Encourage your favorite professor/staff member to attend the Spring Banquet as well.

This year's Spring Banquet will be an event to be remembered! Watch the Daily Bulletin for details on ticket sales.

Spring Banquet is sponsored by the Concordia Student Association.

Servants of the Lord: Review

By Deb Krause

The "Servants of the Lord" concert performed by the Christmas Chorus or the "Christmas" choir portrayed the humbleness of Christ with a wealth of talent and hard work. These servents of the Lord exhibited their achievement through melodies reflecting the life of Christ, from His birth to His triumphant, victorious resurrection.

The concert began with a handbell prelude, it worked very nicely to capture people's attention.

The first pieces sung were Advent-Christmas music; it reminded us of the spirit of the season with help from the instrumentalists. "Joyful All Ye Nations Rise" was a particularly beautiful piece. Through this music the servents of the Lord reflected the wonderful grace of God in sending His only Son to us miserable, flabby sinners.

Then came the joyous celebration news which rang out jubilantly with the words "Christ is Rises!" The overflowing, abundant joy we share in His resurrection was definitely shown by the contemporary choir. The first song, "He is Risen," was exhilarating. People of all ages were joined together by this common bond of life through our resurrection and life after death. These servents of the Lord also taught us in this life we can be glad and sing and praise to the Lord in all of our salvation.

Along with the contemporary lines came activities to help students join some famous lines under the title of "Jachzet dem Herrn." How do we go through life we need to remember to let our praises ring out as did the handbell choir. We need our praises to be rung not only through what we say but also how we live our lives each day. Getting back to living as the Lord intended, the servents of the Lord, helps us relate the Daniel of long ago to Christ in our present lives.

Living as talented "servents of the Lord" this year's Choruses was shoulder to shoulder with the sunshine of California and the beautiful weather during the concert. The joy of life in our Christ was expressed extremely well through the handbells, the contemporary group, the guitars, and all who sang so beautifully and joyfully! 😊

EDITORS' NOTE: The following is a letter from student, Kathy Peschel, to Ralph Kirshbaum concerning a memo in the daily bulletin which read:

REMEMBER YOUR SPRING BILL IS DUE MONDAY. If your account is not paid, your spring registration will be canceled. Any questions contact Phyllis, Office of Financial Management.

Subject: Statement in Daily Bulletin

Dear Kathy,

Thank you for taking time to inquire about the article in the bulletin. I realize this is a busy time for students and I appreciate your questions. I hope the following will explain our intent.

The statement is a reminder to students that Monday, February 23 is the day all fees are due. Naturally, if one has made an agreement with OFM, both the student and OFM are aware of the agreement; therefore, payments are due as agreed. That would not change should students wish to contact Phyllis when they had a question or were not sure of their agreement.

I regret to say this, but in fact there are a few students who have not made any attempt to pay past bills will not contact Phyllis or answer our letters and phone calls. These students will not be allowed to register for spring.

The college went on a new computer system this year and could not bill students in a timely manner. This caused students to be none too keen about paying their bills. Now that the computer system is working and students are being billed in a timely manner, it is imperative that we change the students' attitude. Timely payments by a majority of the students will keep the college in a stable financial condition.

Would He?

It began early in your life as you climbed up on Santa’s lap and told him what you wanted for Christmas; as you made that list of things you wanted and were sure that your parents knew well ahead of time. All of your life you’ve wanted things and now, it is no different. Gimmee, gimmee, gimmee. I hear it so much. But, you say, that’s the way our society is; we were brought up that way; we don’t know any better. Unfortunately, you are absolutely correct. We have all grown up in a society where we’ve been taught to look out for ourselves and to do whatever will benefit good ol’ number one. I do believe that in this sense the system that our country claims as superior to the one in other countries, capitalism, is only a perversion of the freedom that we think we have. It has imprisoned us into believing that making money for ourselves is one of the “rights and freedom,” however; I am not sure that most Christians have it. Also, I see it in so many places. I suppose one could contend that there is a convincing exception to escape from socialism and considering the environment we were brought up in. But, it also seems to me that this wonderful system we call capitalism is diametrically opposed to Christianity.

One needs only to look at Christ’s life and the things He did as He walked this earth. Strangely enough, Christ never did anything out of self-interest and He constantly urged people to live their lives for others. He obviously did not think very highly of money; He tells us “It would be easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God.” (Matt. 19:24) Jesus also warns us, “You cannot serve God and money.” (Matt. 6:24) Not only His words, but His deeds, and the way He lived His whole life portrays complete selflessness; even to the point where He gave it up to save us.

(Cont’d)

Christ came into intimate contact with so many people that were considered “scum.” Today, most of us do not have the desire to deal with such people. The poor, the criminals, the homeless, the fatally ill, etc., etc. Why don’t people like that have a chance in this society? I don’t know, you tell me. What does democracy mean anymore? From what I can tell, Christ wanted everyone to have an equal opportunity and in that way was probably more of a socialist than anything else (of course only in the way that I think of it; Christ has no labels; it is only we who have invented such things). I must apologize to all you “gang busters” Americans out there, but it makes sense to me. I mean, let’s think about it, if Jesus Christ were to come back to earth today, where would He go? Are we the “chosen” ones? He certainly would not come back to middle or higher class America and tell us what a wonderful job we’ve been doing looking out for the needs of others. Don’t get me wrong, material things, in themselves, are not evil, I own things also. It is the obsession we have in gaining more and more that interferes with being a disciple of Christ.

I want to leave you with some questions to think about. Do you really think Christ would defend a people that has been so richly blessed yet leaves so many homeless and without much food or clothing? Would He defend a system that profits from the needs of others by charging interest on the loans that some may desperately need? Would He defend a country that builds fences and sends people back home to feel their own families even though it is impossible without a job?

Would a man who told us to love our neighbors as ourselves condone such actions? Do you really think Christ would put you on the back as you go out to seek your fortune and let the hurting ones around you fend for themselves? I have my doubts.

On the Phrathon

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly recognize the efforts of a group of students here at Concordia. Recently the Office of Development conducted its annual Phrathon. For three weeks we attempted to contact nearly 6,000 CSM alumni located throughout the United States. The results were exciting as we received nearly $31,000 in donations through the Phrathon. This money will provide financial assistance to students this year.

The success of this year’s phrathon is due in large part to the efforts of the 46 volunteers who helped with the calling. Time and space do not allow me to list the names of the callers, but I would like to recognize and thank each of the students who helped to make Phrathon ’87 so tremendous!

Cross Streets

By Lori J. Waldron

"I can’t take it any more! I’m leaving and I’m going someplace you can’t catch back!”

Sound familiar? If you were like me you never got any farther than your own back yard. Yet each year there are thousands of young adults who run away from home, and find themselves on the streets alone and scared. Many have never been away from home and feel an intense need to come any time, any place to meet other people who have run away.

The St. Paul Youth Service Bureau Cross Streets program is one of the many places where young people have safely found a place to go for help. The Bureau has set up a crisis center in the St. Paul area called ARA Concordia College

AR Offers New Services

Regarding Letter from Sam Powers

Dear Editor,

I would like to do my best to serve the dining needs of commuting students, for sev- eral years, ARA SERVICES, in conjunc- tion with Concordia College has offered a very attractive luncheon package. For the present school year, the cost of this quarterly package includes a minimum of $1.00 per meal.

To further meet those needs, ARA Concor- dina Food Service offers two in- novations for the Spring Quarter 1987:

- Coupon books...

These books have a face value of $25.00 and can be purchased in the Food Service Office for a mere $20.00. The coupon book may be used at any meal in the dining hall during the spring quarter. This repre- sents an additional 20% savings over our already reasonable prices.

Dining Hall Entrance... We have established a new policy of allowing guests, non-traditional students, faculty, and staff to use the dining hall for socializing with their friends for $5.00 beverage charge at all meals. Please re- member this is an honor system, and we will ask all guests to register at the front door. Continuation of this policy is directly dependent upon the honesty of those beverage guests.

I realize these steps do not deal with "rights and freedom," however, I am pleased to be of service in meeting the needs of our growing body of non-traditional students.

Sincerely,

Daniel R. Kleber

Director of Food Services

ARA Concordia College
The process will at times be frustrating. The steps we will be following are: defining the makeup of the student body, defining the strengths and interests of the student body, examining internal strengths and weaknesses, prioritizing programs, and then stepping back to accomplishments and fulfilling goals. The process will be a continuous process. We will never achieve our goals, but our efficiency will be increasing.

Strategic Planning

On Dr. Harre's desk, there is a small plaque which reads, "Losers let things happen; winners make them happen." Between now and the end of this school year, it seems likely that we will need the man's presence. Student Association is going to put together a strategic planning document. Since 1985, it has been a fact of college life that the college must continually adjust to keep up with the increased programming allowed. Third, the student body itself has changed and the programming and procedures of Senate have not changed to represent this. Finally, it is said that the goals set upon us allowing us to take the first time around will be the most sustained effect. (2) I predict that in response to the di-rected plan, an improvement will be visible. The Amy Foundation is awarding $35,000 to each of 1985. The funds will be used to support the college's strategic planning efforts. The funds will be used to support the college's strategic planning efforts.

Essay Contest

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is offering its first annual essay contest with a prize of $250. In 500 words or less, applicants must write down their dreams for ministry in their local congregation. The AMY Foundation is awarding $35,000 to each of 1985. The funds will be used to support the college's strategic planning efforts.

Alcohol in a Learning Environment

By Philip Tesch

CSP is, despite rumors to the contrary, neither a hospital for the sick, nor a rehabilitation center for those who restrict college students. CSP is part of the educational ministry of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod with all that entails. College students have always needed little motivation to celebrate events the winning of a game, doing a good job on a project, or a relation-ship. Consuming alcohol has historically been a part of many of those celebrations. Alcohol has also been part of many of those celebrations. Alcohol has also been part of many of those celebrations. Any student who is not aware that getting caught in the act is to be avoided.

An interesting note is that in 1985, the college students were asked if they would like to see a policy that was proposed. students were asked if they would like to see a policy that was proposed. In 1985, the college students were asked if they would like to see a policy that was proposed. The article that appeared in the school newsletter was to present an issue such as divorce, pornography, abortion, etc.

Harré Happenings

By President Harré

The development activities at Concordia are divided into a number of major categories. If you do not understand these categories, you will have additional information about what is happening in the area of fund raising. Concordia must raise money each year in order to secure its share of the in-stitutional budget. These funds are called "unrestricted" gifts. The term unrestricted is generally used to mean that the donor has not stated that the money must be used for a specific project or group. Most of the money generated by the college is raised by donors in response to letters of ap-pearance, alumni phonathon efforts, gifts supplied by some corporations to match gifts supplied to Concordia by the employees of such corporations, and grants from foundations, gifts from congregations and auxiliary groups in congregations often are contributed to Concordia as unrestricted funds. The 1986-1987 revenue budget assumes that Concordia College will receive at least $230,000 from July 1, 1986, to June 30, 1987 in unrestricted gifts. Otherwise, the college's budget will not balance.

Concordia annually receives funds from three foundations: the American Association of Lutherans and Lutheran brother-ship which are provided to the college in response to grants that have been prepared by Mrs. Omar Smith, Concordia's Grants Officer, and which have been accepted in conjunction with grants from foundations or the fraternal insurance companies. Important projects like faculty development activities, ex-pansion of ELS classes for Southeast Asian students are funded by such grants.

Concordia attempts to obtain other funds for unrestricted purposes. In the past, monies tend to be designated to estab-lish scholarship endowment funds. An endowment fund by definition, is a fund that is not spent, but the principal is invested in an interest bearing account or certificate. The annual interest on the principal is expended for general, support student scholarships or for whatever other purpose the donor has restricted the use of the interest. CHISCO is also a frequent recipient of unrestricted funds designated for endowment purposes.

A very significant program for the long term well-being of Concordia Col-lege is Concordia's planned giving activi-ties. Planned giving counseling is provided by Mr. Glen Thiel, Mr. Glenn Thiel, and two other men who work on a part-time basis with him. Much of this money is paid by Concordia College, the Stewardship Department of LCC, and Aid Association for Lutherans South Dakota. Much of this money has been designated for Concordia Col-lege in the will trusts agreements of the donors and will be given to Concordia at the time of their deaths which are restricted for general purposes and can never be memorial endowed scholarship funds.

The Second Century Society of Con-cordia College was initiated in mid November, 1985. The Lord has blessed the college with a committee of 25 who have undertaken the task of organizing the college's financial activities. The college does not have a computer and the college's financial activities are handled by Mr. Thiel and his assistant, Ms. Gerhard. The college does not have a computer and the college's financial activities are handled by Mr. Thiel and his assistant, Ms. Gerhard.

The college is well on its way to making a $10 million appropriation for in-creases in the HECB Grant and Scholarship Program budgets, and for receiving a $10 million appropriation for an increase in the state's non-grant funding. Concordia is already producing more funds than in the past, and the college is currently preparing to have a larger endowment fund. Concordia is already producing more funds than in the past, and the college is currently preparing to have a larger endowment fund.

I also want to make sure the state assists the college in its efforts. The college is well on its way to making a $10 million appropriation for increases in the HECB Grant and Scholarship Program budgets, and for receiving a $10 million appropriation for an increase in the state's non-grant funding. Concordia is already producing more funds than in the past, and the college is currently preparing to have a larger endowment fund.
